November's sky is chill and drear, November's leaves are dun and sear.

The Poet must have possessed the gift of prophecy or else November days are very much now as they were three-quarters of a century age, for yesterday was certainly one of the most cheerless days of the season.

GREAT CRICKET MATCH.-The match which has for some time been pending between the ! dispapolis and Cincinnati Cricket Clubs, will played to-day, on the grounds of the former club To those who have never seen the fine game Cricket played this affords an opportunity that may not be offered soon again; and to those who are admirers of this manly sport, a rich treat is proffered, as many of the players are veterans in the cause. It should be remembered that though the game commences at an early bour this morning, the entire day may be consumed, as is often the case in match games, and frequently two days are required to complete it, when each club plays its two full innings. Our Club expect a large attendance of spectators, and if the day proves fair, which we trust will be the case, their expectations will, doubtless, be realized. PRACTICAL HATTER. INTERESTING TO THE PUBLIC

THE subscriber, formerly Broadway Hatter, and for more than twenty years associated with the leaders of Fashion, and now Proprietor of the Indianapo'is Hat Manufactory, being flatteringly encouraged by the liberal patronage of an appreciating public, has, in the spirit and pride of honorable competition against Eastern productions in his art, resolved upon a renewed and more efficient effort to produce a home-made fashionable head dress which shall be strictly in keeping with all the new improvements, and fully up to the spirit of he progressive age we live in. This season be has introduced, in addition to the Gents and Young Gents' Fall Styles of Fashionable Hats, al the standard style of trade renown, as follows: No. 1-Gents' Fall Style for 1865.

No. 2—Young Gents' Fall Style for 1865. No. 3—Gents' Broadway Standard, Bell style. No. 4—New York Standard, Straight style. No. 5—The Medium Union, Standard style. No. 6—The Paris Standard, Bell style. No. 7-The Paris Standard, D'Orsay style.

No. 8—The Paris Standard, Yeoman style.
No. 9—The Friends' Standard, Straight style.
No. 16—The Friends' Standard, Bell style.
No. 11—Ladies' Silk Hat, Fall styles for 1855. His standard styles are rare productions of intellect and skill, ingeniously blending all the nice points of the several styles (technically) in original styles, unique and so faultiess in combination that by the mere width and shaping of the brim, with suitable curl, will make them suit the fancy of the most fastidious gentleman, or the yeoman. The above named styles are all home-made productions, and unsurpassed for quality of material and elegance of finish, which material is enhanced in value by the modus operandi of manipulation, is the hands of legitimate Hatters, scientifically skilled in the practical execution of his difficult art. With these facilities at his command, he is now prepared to produce a home made Hat, at manufacturers' prices, of unsurpassed ele-gance, combining genius with science, neatness with style, beauty with quality, lightness with durability, clasticity with strength, and a perfect model mould fit, sof and agreeable to the head of the wearer. Gents' Silk Hats altered to the Fall style. Gents' Silk Hats altered to Ladios' Fashionable Styles.

> THE ENGLISH-AMERICAN QUESTION IN FRANCE. The Paris correspondent of the London Post eays: The leading politicians of our money mar-ket and the public generally have read with great interest the published correspondence between the Cabinets of Washington and London. Most men come to the conclusion that ne rupture wil grow out of the demands of the American Gov ernment, but they think England will make com pensation, in some way or other, for a portion of the damage done by the Southern cruisers. That is the French view of the existing difficulty.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE IN ENGLAND. The United States Consul at Manchester, England, writing to the State Department under date of October 17th, reports that as yet there is no abatement of the plague among the cattle, which is mainly confined to horned cattle, but it has in a few instances broken out with great violence in flocks of sheep. As there is danger that the disease may be transmitted to America, he suggests that the importation of foreign stock be for the present prohibited By the importation of hides from Russia the disease is by many supposed to have been introduced into England.

FRENCH REDUCTION OF DUTIES.

Information has been received that the French Government has lowered the duties on raw whale sone, the product of American fisheries, the tariff on that article now being the same as on that imported into France from the European countries. This has been done without any application on our part; it is a spontaneous act by that Government. This voluntary concession to the United States, though of comparatively small importance, coupled with other propitious circumstances, encourages a hope that our commercial relations generally with France will be placed on a more favorable footing. The procession of workingmen of this city was not only large as to numbers, but brilliant in appearance. They carried torches and transparencies, with appropriate mottoes to illustrate the object of their combined movement, viz eight hours for a legal day's work. The line was about a mile in length. It was perhaps the largest and most imposing civic procession ever seen in Washington. Some of the trades, such as gas fitters, boiler makers, steam engineers, blacksmiths and painters gave a practical exhibition of their respective vocations, while the by the expert of 5-20 bonds and other securities.
